Research Foundation SUNY selects Informa Systems to provide e-Learning

San Antonio, TX, June 2011 - Informa Systems, Inc., today announced that The Research Foundation at the State University of New York (SUNY) has selected InformaOne as their Learning Management System.

The Research Foundation supports the advancement of education, research and discovery at SUNY. The Research Foundation was created in 1951 to support research, education and public service at SUNY.

Informa Systems offered an integrated package to the Research Foundation. The product spans authoring, delivery, management and communication - giving clients a single course for their e-Learning requirements, while at the same time providing choices for delivery methods and user feedback. By integrating all areas of e-Learning into one common product the Research Foundation can easily and quickly develop, deploy, manage and communicate using a common user interface.

“By taking a suite approach, Informa Systems is helping to define the emerging face of e-Learning, deploying services that touch a trainer’s daily experience, such as course authoring, community portals and online communication,” stated Lorna Zimmermann, Informa Systems Director, Sales and Marketing.
